WILL TEST THE STATE LAW.

Are Villages Empowered to Suppress Saloons?

The case of the People vs. A. E. Jackson, brought for a violation of Ordinance No. 15 of this village will be made a test case to determine the validity of the State law. The new charter for villages empowers the council to suppress saloons.

This charter was passed by the recent legislature and many villages throughout the State have taken advantage of its provisions and have passed Ordinances like our own, suppressing saloons in the villages. Attorneys have made the claim that the general liquor law controlling the liquor traffic will govern in all cases, whether in case of saloons or hotels. That the general liquor law by implication had repealed the provisions of the law granting villages the power to control the matter within their corporate limits, and that inasmuch as the new law pertaining to this right of villages is identical with the old law on this subject, therefore the new law is also repealed and superceded by the general liquor law.

For these reasons the claim has been made that the new act is invalid. It is believed that this is the first case in which these particular points have been raised and the case will be watched with interest by the councils and citizens of villages throughout the State.

From a local standpoint it is better that the matter should be determined in order to ascertain just what are the rights and duties of the village under the law. If the State law is invalid it is best to know it at once.

The reasons are that it is as good a remedy for Coughs, Colds, Group and other Throat and Lung Troubles as can be made and the Brant Co. have seen fit to give bottles about double the size given by other manufacturers of similar remedies. They think it advertising which the public will appreciate. ## The Missing Link Finally Found.

Every professional and business man has felt the need of some kind of a receptacle, in which could be placed and constantly within reach, reference books such as he uses daily. Just such an article has at last been invented, and is shown and described in another column in this paper. We refer to the Marsh Reading Stand and Revolving Case, now used in upward of 50,000 offices and libraries. Instead of having books scattered around and not found when wanted, or having to go to your library every time one is needed, this revolving case places within the reach of your desk all the volumes you may constantly use. It has shelf room for twenty volumes size of Chambers' Encyclopedia, and a top on which a large dictionary, Bible, or any other heavy book can be placed and adjusted to any angle or height desired. Withal it is a handsome piece of furniture, and is sent to anyone ordering at a low price, and can be paid for after they see and are satisfied with it. 6-
